Judy Semroc “Chimney Swifts: Nature’s Imperiled Avian Insectivores”

Judy Semroc getting into her work!

Judy Semroc currently works in the Natural Areas Division for The Cleveland Museum of Natural History as a Conservation Specialist. She is the founder of “Operation Botanic Rescue” (a volunteer plant rescue group) and “Chrysalis in Time”, the first Ohio Chapter of the North American Butterfly Association (NABA). In 2013, Judy was the recipient of the “Outstanding Staff Achievement Award” for the Cleveland Museum of Natural History. Judy is a co-author of “Dragonflies & Damselflies of Northeast Ohio” in 2008, and “The Goldenrods of Northeast Ohio” in 2017. As a former petroleum geologist and science teacher, Judy loves to learn about and share her passion for the natural world through hikes, interpretative programs and photography.

Judy’s November presentation to Black River Audubon Society will focus on the natural history, behavior, benefits and reasons for the population decline of chimney swifts. In addition, ideas will be presented for ways you can help this beautiful and very important species.
